begun, however, until 1765. The Conference was constituted as an incorporated body in 1784. The term Wesleyan Methodists gradually came into use after Wesley's death in 1791, and the English branch of Methodism is known as the Wesleyan Methodist church.

The minutes of the conferences of 1749, 1755 and 1758 as here printed were issued as a separate signature in the society's Proceedings, v. 4, pt. 5, 1904, paged "61-73" in continuation of the minutes of the earlier conferences which appeared in 1896 as "Publications ... no. 1"; the two sections are bound as one work (73 p.) in the Library of Congress copy.

West, Moses.

A treatise concerning marriage. Wherein the unlawfulness of mixt marriages, is laid open from the Scriptures of truth. Shewing, that it is contrary to the will of God, and the practice of His people, in former ages, and therefore of dangerous consequence, for persons of different judgments, in matters of religious worship, to be joyned together in marriage. Written for the information and benefit of Christian professors in general: and recommended particularly to the youth of either sex amongst the people called Quakers. By Moses West ...
